

Free PlayStation-3 (PS3), X-Box 360, Wii, Plasma & HDTV, etc. sites have proven legit afterall !!

Sometime ago I had came across this site that claimed to give away free gaming systems along with other stuff. Skeptical as I was, I as a little tired of the B.S. surrounding sites like this but noticed that this one in particular had a different concept to it. Not only does this one go by a point system, but it has about 7 different ways to gather these points, and also each item cost a different amount of points. Though saying blah blah yadda yadda once again, I viewed the video testimonials and picture testimonials, in which some mentioned the site name or had the tag shipped with them on hand. Being that there methods seem viable and as a legitimate solution to me not wanting to pay for one of these myself (the prices are downright ridiculous) I'd decided to go with the flow and just see what it was all about.

Each gift is worth a certain amount of points... A PS3 for example is about 40 points. You get points by referring others, signing up to offers (lots of free offers are available, so you don't necessarily have to pay for anything other than trial charge or shipping on some), or buy buying clicks in hopes that one will join. Needless to say... I joined, for free of course, and within 2 weeks, I was able to complete offers and get enough referrals for my PS3, and within 3 weeks I had enough for 2 of them. I logged in late because I didn't believe anything would happen, but when I saw all the points I had... whew!

I quickly emailed them and asked if I could order 2, and to my surprise they said YES! I felt like it would be rather stupid if you can gain 20,000 points and only be able to spend 50, ya know? Needless to say, I just receive my PlayStation-3s (PS3s) today and am still [did you notice the S on that?... yeah...] in disbelief. This is probably the best of the sites for getting a free video gaming system, or other products, so if you've ever been after one, I STRONGLY suggest you get involved.

Are you on myspace? Send out a notice to ALL your friends and see what happens! Who knows.. you might get your Playstation, Iphone, X-Box 360, Ipod, Wii, Plasma TV, etc. etc. for free with just one mailing!!!

Visit here to learn more and possibly get yours free

About the Author

Just a true Gamer. Get It Free

Source: <http://www.freearticlebin.com>